

EDUCATIONAL EFFECTIVENESS

It is the mission of Christ the King Seminary to educate sponsored candidates for ordained priesthood and permanent diaconate in the Roman Catholic Church and individuals pursuing either a graduate theological education, a ministerial education program, or a program of continuing education.

Between 2005 and 2015, 26 graduates of the master of Divinity program have been ordained Roman Catholic priests. 100% of these graduates remain active as priests with 85% working in parishes and 15% working in hospitals and healthcare settings.

The last alumni survey (2007) showed that 100% are actively working in ministry, with 75% serving in parishes and 25% in hospitals. A new survey will be conducted in 2016.

Master of Divinity Degree

During the 2014-15 academic year, two graduates scored an average of 100 percent on the capstone project designed to measure the achievement of degree program outcomes. On average, graduates took five years to complete the program.

Master of Arts in Pastoral Ministry Degree

During the 2014-15 academic year, eight graduates scored an average of 94 percent on the capstone project designed to measure the achievement of degree program outcomes. On average, graduates took four years to complete the program.

Master of Arts in Theology Degree

During the 2014-15 academic year, three graduates scored an average of 81.5 percent on the capstone project designed to measure the achievement of degree program outcomes. On average, graduates took six years to complete the program.